Highlighted Examples

We have a video production class that broadcasts the morning announcements live every other day. This class also produces video projects ranging from PSAs on Safe and Drug-free schools, to creative video projects. It's all geared towards making these students more effective communicators, with and without technology, in the 21st Century.

Implementing ICT and/or Technology Literacy Requirements

Aside from the video production class teaching technology, we have an English class called Media that teaches Media Literacy. I happen to teach the video production classes as well as the Media classes. We want to increase the standards and quality of study for the Media classes.
